"The Crimes of the 1%"

The 2nd State & Corporate Crimes Against Democracy (SCADS) Conference, London, March 17, 2012

Centralisation of power by the 1%, their control of government and ownership of the media have led to massive criminality, particularly through the rigged financial system and the wars. But, in the information age, they are vulnerable to exposure.

* Finance, war, civil liberties and the environment: all aspects of the same crisis?

* Ellen Brown on how the banks really work: the system that creates money as debt and how it could be changed.

* Colluding with terrorists to create fake threats and bring down target governments. "Al Qaeda" from Afghanistan to Libya - terrorism expert Nafeez Ahmed on NATO's secret strategies.

* Who benefits from the illegal drug trade? Why did top US officials authorise the supply of dozens of machine guns to a big Mexican drug cartel?

* The story they buried: former US intelligence chief Richard Clarke's bombshell admission that the CIA "decided" to protect 9/11 hijackers from FBI detection.

* Fear, repetition and trust in authority: the psychology of why so many people believe the official version of the news.

* The BBC's support for the 1%. Emily Church: how their Conspiracy Roadshow twisted what we said. Human rights lawyer Paul Warburton on the failure of the BBC Trust.
